

Toni Seawright is a graduate of Mississippi University for Women with a B.A. in Vocal Music. She made history as the first African American to win the coveted crown of Miss Mississippi, becoming their first Black representative to the Miss America Pageant.

Toni appeared in "The Wiz" w/Stephanie Mills, "Street Corner Symphony," and "What Would Jesus Do?" She won an AUDELCO Award for her portrayal of Miss Mamie in the production of "The Widow and Miss Mamie." She also starred in "Sowa's Red Gravy" and "I, Barbara Jordan." Toni's interests in coaching other actors, has led her on a mission to teaching the importance of committing as an artist.

Toni produced her 1st show with Tony Award winner George Faison: "Leaving Neverland" a tribute to Michael Jackson at the Faison Firehouse in Harlem. She sang backing vocals for the late Laura Branigan, RuPaul, The late Teena Marie, Shaggy just to name a few. Using what she's learned as a performer, Toni lends her management skills to guide the careers of her sons, Qaasim and Khalil Middleton (Nickelodeon's "Naked Brothers Band", "American Idol." Netflix's "The Get Down"). and teaches them and others, the importance of studying and staying focused with your goals.

Toni's vision of becoming a premiere manager with the mission of building her own entertainment firm, relies heavily upon her dedication as an artist to others and using her expertise as a licensed NYS Realtor to help build dreams in the entertainment market.
